FREE FOOTBALL GAMES ALL MONTH, EVERY MONTH STILL GOING STRONG!

July's American Football Preservation Project Daily Posts from Monday – Friday Added Footage of 116 Additional Games!

Snapshots from last month's uploads.

This past July we maintained our daily Monday-Friday content drops and added 23 new entries to our Internet Archive account featuring footage from the 1950s-1960s NFL and 1980s USFL! Our free to view and non-monetized library now features footage, artifacts, and audio from 460 historical match-ups from throughout the history of professional football, along with additional related content. You can watch all of these and more for free and without [modern] ads on our Internet Archive account below:

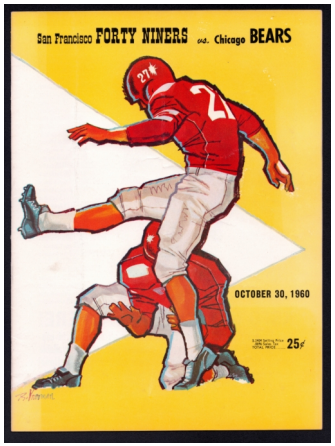
Please note that TCP does not claim ownership of any content not originally created by TCP and that sources for all video content are provided in each post. We have collected, preserved and uploaded said content for non-profit research & educational purposes in-line with current US copyright law.

FIRST MONTH OF ARTIFACTS SEES BIG ADDITIONS!



10 Artifacts Added This Month!

Our first month of expanded content saw the addition of 10 Artifacts, ranging from Media Guides to Game Programs. This is a content type that we are aiming to aggressively expand on but need additional financial resources to support, as each item we've acquired costs us at least $15 plus several hours worth of labor to scan, though rarer items can be considerably more expensive. If you enjoy being able to browse old content like this please consider donating!

EXPANDED PER POST CONTENT ADDITIONS!

We've increased the amount of content per post and season with the inclusion of additional reference sources. Each post now also includes a folder for every game in the season in the order in which they occurred whether we have content or not for a more informed look at the history of the sport.
